Wikipedia: Probability interpretation. Simply put, the probability of something happening is the number of ways it can happen divided by the total number of possible outcomes. For example, the probability of rolling a 6 on a six-sided die is 1/6, because there is only one way to roll a 6 and six possible outcomes in total.

The red envelope in Feng Shui is an important element of traditional Chinese culture. According to Feng Shui beliefs, the red envelope symbolizes good luck, prosperity, and good fortune. Generally, they are used during the New Year and Chinese festivals to give money to family members, friends, and loved ones, especially children and young people.

A red color is considered auspicious and is a dominant color in Chinese celebrations. The act of giving money in a red envelope at a betting site represents a blessing for good luck, wealth, and success in life. In addition, the red envelope in Feng Shui is also used to attract positive energy, known as chi, and to neutralize negative energy at a betting site.
